Trading activity was slow on very light demand. Dealer prices for Colorado and Western Nebraska/Eastern Wyoming Pintos are seeing some fluctuation dues to quality issues. The lower quality make up the majority of the price range, while the lighter amount of high quality Pintos are still seeing prices on the higher side. If the rain falls correctly, it will be just in time for new crop. According to the U.S. Drought monitor, the best probability of above normal precipitation is still looking to come from the Great basin into the Central Plains and up to the Northeast.
